

Reflections on living at 2 Tallow Wood Court, Mount Cotton. (That is the things we will miss)

- Welcome to tranquillity and the sense of coming back to nature as you drive up the driveway to the house. Then as you settle for a quiet drink out the back to commune with the abundance of bird life, some of which become your lifelong friends and return each day to say hello and remind you if you haven't put their seed out.
- Our acreage patch has provided peace and quiet and privacy from neighbours, but a helping hand when you need it if someone has lost a pet.....really the best of both worlds.
- The wonderful walk that is Sanctuary drive, where you can walk as little or as far as you like and a guarantee to provide a good workout on the way back up the hill to Tallow Wood. You meet many other members of Ridgewood Downs community and get to know many of the neighbourhood dogs and their families.
- Tallow wood has a wonderful kitchen and rumpus room, for lots of parties, games over school holidays and of course lots of scrumptious food on special occasions. A wonderful house that has brought the family together through happy times and sad.
- We will also miss the lead lights throughout the house that provide a uniqueness and harmony to the surroundings. They also provide a pleasurable array of coloured hues throughout the house as the sun sets each evening.
- Spacious garages that provide ample room for cars and all that tinkering that is needed for men in their workshop.
- We will miss the warm, cosy sunken lounge room in winter with the fire alight, a glass of good red and stimulating conversation as you watch the logs burn and become coals.
- Coming home to a lovely cool house in summer due to all the surrounding trees, watching the magnificent sunsets through the trees and the palette of colours on the horizon.
- The wildlife of wallabies and their joeys, echidnas, possums and yes even an occasional koala as you wander around you little plot of paradise.
