The asking price of $720,000 for 3 Langleys Road, Mount Taylor, reflects the property's combination of acreage, established improvements, quality of accommodation and additional lifestyle features.

Set on just over one acre, the property provides the space and privacy associated with a rural lifestyle while remaining within easy driving distance of Bairnsdale and the broader East Gippsland region. The well-built three-bedroom home offers spacious living areas, a northerly aspect, galley-style kitchen with both conventional oven and slow combustion stove, built-in robes to all bedrooms and a family-sized bathroom.

The property also benefits from substantial supporting infrastructure, including a double garage with workshop space, second toilet and storage, along with a large shed, established orchard, vegetable garden, water tanks and both town and tank water. Additional features such as the outdoor shower and caravan with heating and cooling provide further flexibility for guests, teenagers or additional accommodation.

The combination of land, established gardens, outbuildings, water infrastructure and versatile improvements adds significant lifestyle value beyond the dwelling itself. The property presents an opportunity to secure a comfortable country home with many of the practical additions already established, reducing the need for immediate improvements.

Taking into account the overall landholding, accommodation, improvements, location and additional lifestyle infrastructure, a price of $720,000 is considered a fair representation of the property's current market value.
